

Important information for our clients at this unprecedented time

The impacts of Covid-19 on health and business are evolving fast. Currently, we are prioritising helping our clients who have the greatest need. So, if you are experiencing a delay in us getting back to you, we are sorry and we are trying our best.

End of Year Questionnaires have been sent and these are also available to download from our website

It is essential that every business has a plan for dealing with the fallout from this pandemic.

A plan will give you peace of mind and clarity for decision-making for the future of your business, and ensure you access Government support entitlements and maximise opportunities to preserve your cashflow and profitability. In the worst-case scenario, we want you to have certainty about whether your business can continue and plan around that.

We've created some practical content to help you build your Business Continuity Plan and will roll out the details in the coming days.

Doing nothing here is simply not an option, we will be contacting you to outline some options in more detail.

In the meantime, please understand that our team can work from their homes with minimal disruption to the service we provide. Our accounting software is cloud based (we can use it via the internet), and we are available via email and mobile. So, contact us if you need our help.

Lastly, now is the time to prioritise your mental health. As they say, put your own oxygen mask on before assisting others. If the situation is affecting you, consider blocking out social media or things that may worsen anxiety, but whatever you do, please stay in touch with us - so that together we set a plan to help you in these difficult times.

Stay safe and best regards,
